

NAZI ANNIHILATION ALLIED AIM IN ITALY

Meandering
Along the Main Stem
By WASH FAYETTE

The latest contribution to the nature department of this column is a large, capsule-shaped hen egg, some three inches in length and 1 1-4 inches in diameter, with a heavy ring about the center. It was laid by a hen owned by Harley Ward, Bloomingburg, Route 1.

It has not been so many years ago that when one walked along the up-town streets, few of the store windows were lighted and the whole area presented a desolate scene generally.

However, with the coming of more progressive ideas and better lighting facilities, very few display windows in Washington C. H. are dark during the early hours of each night.

Most of the windows are well lighted and the merchant who does not believe it is good business to keep his windows lighted, let him park his car near his store and watch the number of persons who pass along the streets and "window shop" as they go.

Good window lighting goes hand in hand with good window displays and every merchant knows that attractive window displays are necessary and the character of a store may readily be determined by the kind of window displays and, I might say, by the lighting of the store windows.

Recently while parked at the curb on Court Street about 9:30 at night, I watched with interest the number of pedestrians who halted before display windows and studied the goods artistically arranged under bright lights. The percentage of all persons who were on the sidewalks, who stopped to look into the lighted store windows, was a surprise and included fully one-half of all pedestrians.

Take it from Elmer and Raymond Zimmerman, practically all kinds of fruit will produce a normal yield this season if nothing happens to the crop from now on and they are certain that it can be considered safe from damage by cold.

Some of the apple trees showed little bloom, but most of them have shown abundant bloom and the apples have set. It is not unusual for some trees not to bear every year, they point out.

Generally speaking the crop of fruit will be normal, from peaches to apples and the crop will be welcome by reason of the big shortage in the Ohio fruit crop last year.

The Zimmerman orchard on the Prairie Road is one of the largest in this area and one of the few commercial orchards in Fayette County.

Fifty years or more ago nearly every farm of consequence had its fruit orchard and in those days there were few pests to destroy the fruit. Now, however, frequent sprayings are necessary to insure an abundant crop.

ITALY IN TURMOIL
AS ALLIES ADVANCE

Sabotage Hampers Nazis and Food Gets Scarce

BERN, Switzerland, May 16.—(AP)—The Allied push into the Gustav line coupled with bombs and partisan sabotage, has disrupted food deliveries and thrown Italy into the greatest confusion since the days following Mussolini's ouster, it was reported today.

Swiss dispatches from the border said at least 500,000 Italians were fleeing the southern war zone and have pushed into Rome, which already is short of housing with 100,000 persons bombed out of their homes.

Virtually no rail communications exist from Florence southward, the dispatches said, and it has been impossible to shunt the refugees northward. Trucks and planes alone are available for transporting food to the south, it was said.

Italian partisans, their numbers growing, have launched a series of hit-and-run offensives to parallel the Allied thrust into the Gustav line, frontier reports disclosed.

Open fights between Fascists and anti-Fascists were reported from northern Italy.

LIVELY BATTLE
LOOMS IN HOUSE
OVER 'G. I. BILL'

Industry Scores One With Labor Board - OPA Studies Five-cent Cigars

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP)—The Senate's "G. I. Bill of Rights," completely rewritten by the House Veterans' Legislation committee, was before the House today for consideration of amendments. A lively battle was in prospect over a section providing education benefits for veterans of World War two.

Contending that state's right are involved, the House Education committee has asked that legislation, introduced by its chairman, Rep. Barden (D., S. C.), be substituted for the Veterans' legislation committee proposal which places supervision in the Veterans' Administration headquarters.

The Barden bill would authorize state education boards and universities to set up standards for veterans' education and to receive government funds for half the extra cost of administration. The Veterans' Bureau would determine whether a veteran was qualified to receive the education benefits.

Barden and other committee members assert that plan would leave control of all education in the states and contend the Veterans' committee program would be the entering wedge for federal control of public schools, centralizing the authority in Washington. This contention is denied by Chairman Rankin (D., Miss.) of the Veterans' Legislation committee and Rep. Schriverer (R., Kas.), committee member.

Score One For Industry
The War Labor board today upheld management's right to discipline employees who strike in violation of contract. It reversed its Detroit Regional board which had ordered the Norge Machine Products division of the Borg-Warner Corporation, Muskegon, to reinstate 41 former employees with seniority rights, but without back pay. WLB labor members dissented from the majority decision.

Supreme Court
Vacation-bound Supreme court justices, hustling to get pending cases decided by the end of May, are taking time out nevertheless to disagree among themselves. Yesterday, the tribunal divided in eight out of ten decisions with each of the nine justices taking part in one or more dissents.

Five-Cent Cigar
The nickel cigar, like the old tobacco store's wooden Indian, is pretty hard to find. Prices have gone up because of allowed increases due to higher labor costs and new federal revenues and because cigar makers have been allowed to introduce new brands at higher levels. But the OPA is studying the problem, working to bring the old nickel cigar down to something nearer a nickel.

Coal Under Discussion
The War Labor board may approve the soft coal wage agreement this week. Discussions among board members have indicated the probable decision and Chairman William H. Davis yesterday submitted to the board the first draft of a proposed opinion approving the agreement submitted by the United Mine Workers and operators who represent more than 70 percent of the soft coal tonnage.

British Continue Mop-up of Burma While Yank Bombers Blast New Guinea Coastline and Enemy-held Islands Over Vast Expanse of Pacific Ocean

By RICHARD C. BERGHOLZ
(By the Associated Press)
China's new offensive on the Salween River front has swept through several strategic points and Tokyo radio broadcast a report which indicated the Allies may have a new airbase within bombing range of the Japanese homeland, Formosa and the Philippines.

The radio broadcast claimed Nipponese planes hit Suichwan, 225 miles north-northeast of Canton, and termed Suichwan "the advance base of the American air force." Tokyo said the "main force" was wiped out, that possibly seven planes were shot down and more than 38 others set afire or severely damaged.

Reports Not Confirmed
Neither the raid nor the losses have been confirmed by Allied sources. If Suichwan has been built into an effective striking base, Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's 14th Airforce would be less than 1,000 miles from the Japanese home islands, 675 miles from Luzon in the Philippines and 450 miles from Formosa's capital—all within bombing range.

At least 20,000 troops crossed the Salween at a dozen points but are meeting stiff resistance. Tokyo radio confirmed the Chinese had gone over to the offensive but said the initial thrust ended in "miserable failure."

Wakde Island Bombed
General MacArthur's headquarters announced 260 tons of bombs have been dropped on Japanese installations at Wakde Island and the adjacent Dutch New Guinea coastline, raising the two-day bomb total there to 554 tons. Other planes hit the Schouten islands for the 11th straight day.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' headquarters reported raids on Shumushu in the far-north Kurile Islands, on Truk and Ponape in the Carolines and on isolated enemy garrisons in the eastern Marshalls.

EASTERN HOSPITALS
CLEARED OF WOUNDED
AS INVASION NEARS

NEWARK, N. J., May 16.—(AP)—The first large-scale air evacuation of war wounded inland from receiving hospitals began today when twelve new C-47 ambulance planes took off from Newark airport with 203 patients from the Halloran General Army Hospital on New York's Staten Island.

A War Department statement said the move was to get ready for the time when "evacuation of casualties is likely to reach its greatest volume."

Two of the ambulance planes left for Cleveland. All the planes were expected back this evening for repeat performances Wednesday and Thursday.

CIVILIANS ARE REPLACING SOLDIERS FIT FOR COMBAT
COLUMBUS, May 16.—(AP)—Civilians are moving into army desk jobs throughout the army's fifth service command.

Command headquarters announced yesterday that civilians have replaced approximately 175 combat-fit soldiers at Fort Hayes here. Others are working at Camp Breckenridge, Ky., and Camp Atterbury, Ind. Only persons who can produce certificates of availability are hired.

HERBERT HALTS
BALLOT RECOUNT

Action Taken at Cincinnati in Primary Aftermath

COLUMBUS, May 16.—(AP)—A second tabulation of some of the votes cast in Hamilton County last week in the Republican gubernatorial race was halted yesterday by Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel.

The attorney-general lost the stop order to Hamilton County after, he said, Attorney-general Thomas J. Herbert notified him that "in the event any more ballot boxes or bags are opened, he would institute court action against your (the Hamilton County) board."

The attorney-general last the G. O. P. nomination for governor to Mayor James Garfield Stewart of Cincinnati by an unofficial margin of only slightly more than 2,000 votes. Stewart carried Hamilton County by a 12-to-1 margin.

Herbert asserted 18 precincts already have been recounted but he contended the only legal way in which there could be a recount was by written request of a candidate or disclosure of a discrepancy between the total vote certified by the precinct and that posted at the booth.

Herbert said he was not questioning exactness of the count in any of the recounted precincts, but that he "wanted it done in a legal way."

Hummel also announced yesterday that his unofficial returns showed Stewart won the nomination by a margin of 2,611 votes—162,698 to 160,097. The Associated Press unofficial returns, completed last Wednesday, gave Stewart a margin of 2,287 votes.

FOREMEN'S STRIKE
HURTS WAR EFFORT

Condemnation Comes from Undersecretary of War

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP)—Asserting the current strike of 3,300 foremen in 13 Detroit area war plants threatens to stop production of P-51 Mustang long range fighter planes and otherwise impede war aircraft output, Undersecretary of War Patterson said today that the matter may be laid before War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes before tonight.

Stating the issues involved (the foremen are seeking recognition of their independent union) were outside his jurisdiction, Patterson told newsmen the effect of the strike on critical production was a matter of grave concern to the War Department. He commented:

"We have bombed German aircraft engine factories. They don't need to bomb ours."

REDS LOSE TO BRAVES
IN MORNING BALL GAME

CINCINNATI, May 16.—(AP)—Nate Andrews hurled six-hit ball today as Boston defeated Cincinnati's Reds 1-0 for an even break in the four-game series. Two second-inning singles, a sacrifice and an outfield fly provided the score. Catcher Clyde Klutts cornered half of his mates' six hits off Ed Heusser and Bob Ferguson.

AMERICAN CORRESPONDENT
KILLED IN ACTION IN ITALY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, May 16.—(AP)—Frederick Faust, war correspondent for Harper's Magazine and better known under the pen name of Max Brand as a fiction and movie writer, was killed in action Thursday night on the lower Garigliano sector, it was disclosed today.

Faust, who wrote under four other pen names, was creator of the Dr. Kildare stories which had wide popularity in motion pictures. He wrote 85 books and also quantities of fiction and became known as "King of the Pulp."

Faust was killed the opening night of the Fifth Army offensive. He previously had been reported wounded. He went into the opening assault with the troops only a short time after arriving in this theater.

Henry Buckley, correspondent for the British news agency, Reuters, was wounded when a shell burst close to his jeep Sunday. He is making satisfactory recovery in a field hospital.

SPRINGFIELD, May 16.—(AP)—Five little children, racing for a playground at the end of school, took a short-cut across a 200-foot railroad trestle late yesterday. A freight train thundered around a sharp curve and caught them squarely in the middle of the span.

Paralyzed by terror, they knotted in a tiny group in the center of the single railroad track. It was 40 feet to the bottom of the ditch below.

FRENCH POUR THROUGH GAP IN NAZI LINE
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES, May 16.—(AP)—French troops poured through a breach in the Gustav line on the south edge of the Liri Valley today in pursuit of disorganized remnants of the German 71st division whose break was endangering the flank of the Nazi line blocking British troops at the valley's mouth.

By RICHARD McMURRAY
(By the Associated Press)
Allied troops crushed all German defenses south of the Liri River in central Italy today as the reduction of the Gustav line became a great battle of annihilation with the Americans seizing the mountain stronghold of Spigno and the French wiping out two regiments of up to 6,000 men.

Advances since Thursday ranged from three to eight miles. A thousand more Germans surrendered, raising the total to 3,000. Eight or more villages fell; many more commanding mountains were taken. The foe spoke of increased pressure northeast on imperiled Cassino where the British were debouching tanks into a great flanking drive.

Annihilation Is Aim
Gen. Alexander's aim became clear: it was primarily to destroy the German armies in Italy, rather than to advance swiftly through the tangles of mountains. His reserves were not yet committed, neither those behind the southern lines nor those in the Anzio beachhead within 20 miles of Rome.

The French captured San Giorgio, just south of the Liri, laying bare the flanks of Cassino. They also took Monte Fammara, Cresta Lucia, Le Forche, Casale, Annunziata and Castel Nuovo. The Americans seized Capo Duco and three defense hills. The 131st and 194th regiments were declared destroyed, the commander and staff of the latter captured. Gen. Alphonse Juin said the Germans were in "disorderly retreat" before his avenging troops.

The Germans counter-attacked near the Tyrrhenian Sea and around Cassino. The British and Indians deepened their Rapido bridgehead to two miles. Offshore, American and British cruisers and destroyers pumped hundreds of salvos into German ammunition dumps and gun positions.

Support from Warships
Allied naval forces gave their support to the ground offensive for the fourth successive day yesterday, bombarding heavy concentrations of anti-aircraft and long-range artillery in the hills around Formia and Itri behind the fighting front where the Fifth Army is inching forward.

A U. S. cruiser escorted by two destroyers carried out a bombardment May 14, reporting hits on two ammunition dumps in the target area, the Allied communications disclosed.

Yesterday a British cruiser and two destroyers pumped 800 rounds into the target areas.

Sharp tank and artillery duels as well as steady infantry fighting roared around the British-Indian bridgehead over the Rapido River, which officially was reported to be now nearly two miles deep in the direction of Pignataro, enemy strong point at the center of the mouth of the Liri valley.

There were no reports today of the Poles northwest of Cassino and it appeared the assault in that sector had been brought to a standstill by strongly entrenched German parachute troops.

The enemy's possession of the ruins of Cassino and the nearby Monastery Heights was rendered precarious by the advance of the

NEW JURY SEATED
IN ESPIONAGE TRIAL

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP)—A jury composed of ten men and two women was sworn in today to try 29 persons accused of conspiring to set up a Nazi form of government in this country.

The jury was sworn after the defense exercised its tenth and final peremptory challenge to remove Ralph Egan, 60, a commerce department clerk. Anthony Falcone, 49, a life insurance agent who was born in Italy, was seated in Egan's place.

The jury was completed in the fifth week of the mass trial. First efforts to obtain a jury were abandoned because of expiration of April panels.

85 PROMOTED FROM 11 COUNTY GRADE SCHOOLS

Impressive Exercises Held in High School Auditorium Here Monday Night

Eighty-five eighth grade pupils of the eleven county grade schools received their certificates entitling them to enter high school next year as freshmen, at exercises held in the Washington C. H. High School auditorium at 8 P.M. Monday.

A procession by Mr. Karl J. Kay, of the high school faculty, opened the program, at the close of which the entire audience stood to sing "The Star Spangled Banner." Accompanist for this was Mrs. Dorothy S. Everhart, at the piano, and Mr. Kay, organist.

Rev. F. M. Moon gave the invocation, followed by the Union Chorus, composed of pupils from Chaffin, Eber and Wilson schools, including grades five to eight sang "Sicilian Night" and "Starry Night." They were accompanied by Mrs. Margaret McCoy.

Dr. P. O. Wagner of Columbus, who is affiliated with the State Department of Education dealing with handicapped children, was the guest speaker of the evening.

Following a short musical program of organ selections by Mr. Kay, Superintendent W. J. Hilly and the school principals presented the certificates of promotion and special awards.

In the state awards Donald B. McCoy (Yatesville) received eighth place certificate, with honorable mention certificates going to Janet Louise Roush (Buena Vista) Eugene Kepler and Donald E. Smith (Wilson).

Honors Awarded

The following pupils were awarded honor certificates in the order named: Donald B. McCoy (Yatesville), Janet Louise Roush (Buena Vista), Eugene Kepler (Wilson), Donald Edward Smith (Wilson), Joseph LeRoy Stultz (Yatesville), Shirley Pagan (Olive), Barbara Knedler (Buena Vista), Robert Kibler (Wilson).

Those who were awarded county honorable mention was Jack Smith (Eber), Loren Drexel Hynes (Chaffin), Jack Pope (Wilson), James Hidy (Chaffin), Marvin Merritt (Chaffin), Florence Torbett (Eber), Fred Mitchell (Stanton), Mary Lou Reif (Marion), Sara L. Mainly About People

Mrs. Charles Manker is rapidly improving after undergoing an appendectomy, Saturday, at Grant Hospital, Columbus. She is in Room 221.

Mr. William Garlinger is "doing nicely" in Room 203 of Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, where he underwent a major operation sometime ago.

Mrs. Loren Yoho was removed from Mt. Carmel Hospital to her home, here, 426 South Fayette Street, in the Snyder ambulance of Mt. Sterling. She is "getting along nicely."

Mrs. Della Lynch and infant daughter, Sharon Frances, were removed from White Cross Hospital, Columbus, to their home on Main Street, Tuesday morning. The Cox and Parrett ambulance made the trip.

Clarence Orihood, who was injured in a crash of railroad handcars several months ago, was taken to University Hospital in Columbus, Monday, in the Klever ambulance for another of the periodical examinations of his leg injury. The cast was removed and X-ray pictures taken.

Mrs. Mayme Combs, who has spent the past year in Unionville, Tenn., with her son, George Combs and wife, suffered a severe injury to her back, when she returned to her home in Jeffersonville, while rearranging her home after a lengthy absence. She is, however, recovering "nicely."

DAY OF PRAYER PLANNED HERE FOR INVASION

Ministerial Association Passes Resolution To Keep Churches Open

Opening of the churches of Fayette County for a special day of prayer when the Allied forces launch their invasion of Europe, was planned by their ministers at the regular meeting of the Fayette County Ministerial Association, Monday, at the North Street Church of Christ.

A resolution adopted by the association read: "We, the Fayette County Ministerial Association, hereby go on record commending to all churches in Fayette County the opening of these churches for prayer and meditation at the time there comes to our community news of the beginning of the Invasion. Much more fervently we urge all Christian people of Fayette County to pray earnestly each day—whether before, during or after the Invasion—not only for the safety of their loved-ones, but for the Will of God to be done on earth and for the strength and courage for each of us to do the most in fulfilling that Will."

The ministers emphasized that this was to be not at all a celebration but a time of sincere prayer for the fighting men by those at home. If there are those who may pray and meditate better in the sanctuary of a church, then certainly the church should not deny them that opportunity, whether that desire comes from a worshipper on Invasion day or any other time, a spokesman explained.

A covered-dish luncheon and fellowship hour was enjoyed by members of the association and their families. Following the meal, a short devotional period was led by Rev. John K. Abernethy.

The association called the special attention of its members to Jesse Eyeman Day, to be held Friday. After a few brief remarks the meeting was adjourned by prayer by Rev. E. R. Rector.

FUNERAL SERVICE HELD FOR MRS. MINNIE QUANN

Friends and relatives of Mrs. Minnie Quann gathered at Rodgers A. M. E. Church at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon to pay their final tributes to her at funeral services in charge of Rev. D. F. Lee, the church pastor, assisted by Rev. Edward Gray, pastor of the Bloomingburg Methodist Church.

A memorial tribute was read by Mrs. Margaret Woodson who also sang "Just A Closer Walk With Thee."

Mrs. Milton Easton sang "Where Have I Done The Best I Can" and the choir sang the two hymns "I Need Thee Every Hour" and "He'll Understand."

The floral remembrances were taken care of by Millicent Thomas, Patsy and Hartsy Evans, Audrey Jackson and Wanda Harris.

The pallbearers who carried the casket to its final resting place in the Washington C. H. Cemetery were four sons, Stewart, Thomas, Emmett and Lewis Quann, Harry Kelley and William Anderson.

Citizens residing in the Jeffersonville community outside of the town are asked to aid the Scouts by taking their paper to Jefferson Hall where Scouts will take care of it.

SPRINGFIELD MAN IS HELD FOR RATION STAMP THEFT COUNTERFEITING SCENTED

Springfield friends and relatives. Katz is married and the OPA said he recently has worked "on his own" as a typewriter and adding machine repairman.

Six other persons have been arrested in what the Office of Price Administration described as the operation of a "huge syndicate" for the printing of counterfeit ration stamps and the distribution of stolen genuine coupons.

In another Springfield case, the OPA filed charges in U. S. District Court at Dayton against G. G. Davis Moving & Storage Co., (of 215 South Fountain Ave.) Springfield, charging violation of ceiling prices on moving and household storage.

The case was described as the first of its kind in the Middle West.

Both a temporary and permanent injunction was sought in the three-count complaint which alleged the company charged more for intracity moving than a ceiling based on the highest rates charged in March, 1942; failed to file required forms with the transportation and public utilities division of the OPA at Washington, and failed likewise to post and file a schedule of rates.

The case was set for hearing before District Judge R. R. Nevins here next Saturday.

BABY DROWNS IN LARGE CISTERN NEAR THIS CITY

Mother's Frantic Efforts To Save Child Are of No Avail

Sheila Faye Kendrick, 30-months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Kendrick, of Jonesboro, drowned in a cistern at the Kendrick home about 10 A.M. Tuesday and her body was not recovered until 30 minutes later when Fire Chief George Hall reached the scene and removed the baby's body from the cistern.

Mrs. Kendrick saw the child fall into the open cistern, the lid of which had been left off while the mother was doing the family wash and rushing to the cistern Mrs. Kendrick lowered herself into the cistern at the risk of losing her own life, but was unable to find the child's body and succeeded in crawling from the opening in the top and her screams for help attracted neighbors.

It was not until about 30 minutes had elapsed, and calls were made for the officials here that Fire Chief Hall and other firemen hurried to the scene with the rescuer.

Dr. N. M. Reiff, county coroner, pronounced the child dead when he reached the scene a few minutes after the baby's body had been removed from the water. Deputy Sheriff Otto Reno was also called to the scene and investigated.

Officers said the opening of the cistern was small, and that the cistern was almost full of water, being within 16 inches of the top, and apparently upward of six feet in depth.

The baby's body was removed to the Klever Funeral Home.

In addition to its parents, the child is survived by a baby brother.

Funeral plans have not been completed.

dom-of-the-air policy for peacetime flying.

While members of the group would not talk for publication, it became known they have approved a letter addressed to Hull asking:

1. The text of remarks Lord Beaverbrook, Lord Privy Seal, made to the House of Lords May 10 in which he reportedly asserted Britain had abandoned a Canadian-backed plan for central aviation control and had turned toward what was described as an American-sponsored idea based on the right to fly, to set down passengers, mail and cargo, and to pick them up anywhere in the world.

2. Complete data on any commitments Adolf A. Berle, Jr., assistant secretary of state, may have discussed in his recent conversations with Beaverbrook in London.

Relief Anyway

Opponents forecast today it will be another year before they have to face again a bill to ban collection of state taxes in federal elections, following Senate votes yesterday pigeonholing the measure.

Senator Bilbo (D., Miss.) told a reporter he thought the measure was "on the shelf for a year" at least, but had no doubt that it would be brought up again. Bilbo was one of those who joined in a southern filibuster which ran about five hours a day for four days last week but which practically wrote a death sentence on the House-approved measure, so far as this Congress is concerned.

But some of the proponents of the measure outside Congress were loathe to admit any such defeat, even going so far as to establish a desultory picket line outside the capitol grounds.

The Senate sidetracked the bill yesterday by a 41 to 35 vote.

WIND AND RAIN SWEEP COUNTY

Large Area Drenched Early Tuesday Afternoon

A heavy wind and rain storm swept over a large portion of Fayette County, coming down from the northwest and striking this city around two o'clock.

In Jefferson and Paint Townships, reports stated, the heavy rainfall was preceded by violent winds over most of the area, and the storm was also accompanied by considerable wind in and near this city.

The storm rolled down in a remarkably short time, and was accompanied by considerable lightning over part of its course.

In the Jeffersonville community, upward of an inch of rain fell in less than 30 minutes, and heavy rain fell throughout the

Fifth War Loan Campaign Committee Set Up Here

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The Allied offensive in Italy has got away to a business-like start with its gain of from three to eight miles—more than sixty square miles of territory—against the powerful mountain defenses of the Gustav line.

There has been hard fighting, demonstrating anew that the Germans still have the will for stubborn resistance and that our progress towards Rome is going to be no cake-walk. The Allied high command has warned us to expect tough going.

There are some indications, however, that the Nazis may elect to make their main stand on the Adolf Hitler line which passes through Piedmonte a few miles behind the Gustav front. The enemy are reported to have made withdrawals at some points in face of the heavy onslaught.

If this is the German intention it probably means that the Allies have their hardest fighting still ahead of them. The Adolf Hitler line is said to be powerfully defended, as one would expect from the fact that the Nazi chief's name has been given to it, and may prove to be a hard nut to crack.

However, this is no fresh discovery and the Allies must be prepared to carry the drive through to its finality—the capture of Rome—this time. They can't afford to let the Germans stymie them again, since the repercussion of failure would be far worse than as though they had merely sat tight and held their line.

Since there's strength in unity, the composition of the Allied forces invites optimism, for many races and nationalities are represented. It would be unfair to pick out any single unit for special praise, since all are pulling their weight, but we can be generous in recording pleasure at seeing our French Allies in action and being given official credit in the communique for having made "a significant breach" in the Gustav line. It's a happy reminder that a big French Army is waiting impatiently in North Africa for its chance to avenge France's disaster.

H. G. Wells, the distinguished author-historian, is likely to create a storm of argument because of his assertion that "what-ever comes out of this war there must be no killing of Hitler." In His "contemporary memoirs" entitled "42 to 44" he declares that if Hitler were killed "we should be making a present to the real evil spirits of Germany—we should be giving them just the national martyr behind whose legend they can shelter from the wrath to come."

Mr. Wells advocates that the Fuehrer be certified and put away "in a not too luxurious asylum for criminal lunatics."

268 SALESMEN ARE NAMED TO CARRY ON WORK

People of County Expected To Loan $950,000 To Help Finance World War

Tentative plans for an intensive campaign in Fayette County to meet the quota of $950,000 assigned for this county in the Fifth War Loan were made Monday at a meeting of the Fayette County War Finance Committee called by Chairman Forrest Hill at the office of the Dayton Power and Light Company.

All told, 268 men and women have been enrolled to help finance the war by selling War Bonds—11 of them are to handle the administrative work, 79 are to canvass the city, 178 are to cover the rural sections of the county and 58 are on the committee named to handle the campaign among the women in both city and county.

While Hill is to continue to act as general chairman for the county, there is to be a special chairman to have charge of the campaign on each separate loan drive. For the Fifth War Loan, A. B. Murray has been appointed to this position.

The war bond quota for the coming loan drive which starts June 12 and will continue, if necessary, until July 6, has been slightly reduced in this and other rural counties in the Ohio district of which Fayette County is a part. This revision was made because of an agreement that the proportionate quota in large industrial centers where heavy war contracts were being produced should be higher than in those communities where there are few if any big government war contracts.

The Fifth War Loan drive in the nation is for a total of 16 billion dollars and for the 22 counties of this district the quota has been set at $204,031,000.

In Fayette County the quota has been divided as follows: individual sales including a total of $379,000 for "E" bonds have a total quota of $646,000; corporations and industries are expected to purchase a total of $304,000 or more in bonds of various types.

A general meeting of all the workers assigned to take an active part in the coming campaign, is to be called by Chairman A. B. Murray probably on the evening of Friday, June 9 in the second floor meeting hall of The Dayton Power and Light Company. Any change in this date is to be announced later.

Buy War Bonds and Stamps

A sales organization of 268 men and women has been set up to sell $950,000 worth of War Bonds to the people of Washington C. H. and Fayette County during the Fifth War Loan campaign starting June 12.

Heading the organization to direct the campaign and coordinate its activities are eleven men and women. Each ward in the city and township in the county is to have its own sales organization, operating under chairmen and captains. The set-up approved at a meeting of the campaign directors Monday afternoon, follows:

FOUR IN COURT FOR CAR THEFT

One Bound Over and Others Report Wednesday

Four youths who were taken into custody by Sheriff W. H. Icenhower, over the week-end, were arraigned before Judge Otis B. Core, Monday afternoon, on charges of operating an automobile without the owner's consent.

The four are: Franklin Dunn, 18, on probation, "Red" Housman; James Stratenberger and Richard Thomas, of Bloomingburg; Thomas is also on probation.

The quartet landed in the toils after Sheriff Icenhower learned that they were involved in taking the Rhoads Packard car in

A Neighbor Boy Makes Good
In the summer of 1937 serious physical trouble came to visit an eleven year old Ohio boy. Travelling with his parents on a vacation trip, Ira Gossett Hawk picked up an infantile paralysis germ which put him into plaster casts for the next 23 months and which today, seven years later, has left him badly crippled.
But that infantile paralysis germ which so ravaged his physical being, more than met its master when it sought to carry its devastation to the brave spirit with which God had endowed this boy from this part of our home state.
This lad, who is known to a good many Fayette County people and who was warmly welcomed some time ago when he appeared before the Rotary Club of Washington C. H., stands forth as an example of real American courage. He lives near Lynchburg, in Highland County.
America was languishing in the slough of depression when this physical disaster struck young Hawk—it was a period when a paternalistic government, with good intention but unwise judgment, was attempting to overcome that depression by doing things for people rather than encouraging people to do things for themselves; when boys, strong of body, unconsciously were absorbing this defeatist philosophy being propagandized that America had no new frontiers, that there were no new worlds to conquer and that only government could save the people from want and starvation.
Ira Gossett Hawk stands as a living symbol to refute these false defeatist theories. His record of accomplishments over the past seven years, despite pain and suffering, despite physical handicap, bears eloquent testimony to the fact that "Where there is a will, there is a way," and that "You can't keep a good boy down."
Shortly after his affliction, Gossett launched a newspaper, "The Salem Echo." Its slogan is, "The Echo Echoes The American Way"—and it does just that. Its youthful publisher succeeds in putting into it considerable of his indomitable spirit. The first printing of the "Echo" was a modest 100 copies but today its circulation is up in the thousands and it numbers among its subscribers many famous people ranging from the Duke and Duchess of Windsor to Governor Bricker of Ohio, located in all 48 states and 15 foreign countries. In 1941, the National Junior Newspaper League, of which it is a member, adjudged the "Salem Echo" the best junior newspaper in the nation.
The many duties involved and the long hours entailed in publishing this newspaper have not interfered with Hawk's schooling. He completed 12 grades of public school in 8 years, graduating last May as valedictorian of his class. Carrying off all honors in scholarship tests, he won a scholarship to Wilmington College where he enrolled last fall and is making as brilliant a record as he did in grade school. He continues to publish the "Salem Echo" in order to help pay his college expenses.

Dr. Alfred P. Haake of Chicago, one of America's outstanding lecturers, a few months ago wrote a letter to this young editor, which carried such a beautiful message that we cannot refrain from quoting it. Wrote orator Haake to editor Hawk:
"I am grateful to a good friend for presenting me with a three year subscription to your paper. . . I have another good friend who is fond of saying that our handicaps become our opportunities. I think that can be made to be true by any man who has the courage, persistence and vision to make it true. Your handicap has annoyed you plenty, I have no doubt, but the extra effort you must put forth because of it, will undoubtedly pay you big dividends before the race is over for you.
"I know that to be true. You see, when I was fourteen I could not talk. I stammered so frightfully that I was not permitted to recite in school—it made too much commotion. Then one day I heard a man say that any of us could do anything if we only had faith in ourselves. I believed him. And today I make my living as a lecturer. You see, I had to learn to talk, and the extra effort to learn carried me much further than I would have gone had I not had the handicap. So I say "Thank God for our handicaps and the courage to overcome them!"
A subscription to this unique publication is $2.00 for three years. If you are interested, the address is: Salem Echo, Plainview Farm, Lynchburg, Ohio. And lest we be accused of turning commercial, we desire to say that our sole "interest" is to give you an opportunity through his newspaper to become acquainted with a grand American boy.

Diet and Health
Treatment of Wounded
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
I HAVE BEFORE me a number of articles dealing with the advances and improvements made in surgery during the present war. I have collected them from time to time within the last year. The doctor, Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.
tal impression that remains from examining all of them is that war does not teach very much that is useful. In short to most of the sensational announcements in the press of startling new improvements in surgery brought about by the war, may be applied the old and cynical surgical phrase—"Most of what is true is not new, and most of what is new is not true."
The most valuable lessons which have been applied in the present conflict have been learned from the extraordinary advance of industrial surgery between World War I and World War II. And that improvement has mostly been a matter of organization. Industrial surgeons found that in any given plant devoted to the manufacturing of a given product, the chemical and manufacturing processes involved will result in a percentage rate of certain kinds of accidents.
Their surgical plants are especially set up with apparatus to treat the two or three kinds of accidents that experience has taught them are the overwhelmingly most common in their particular plant. This ties in with the other great lesson of industrial surgery which is that the sooner proper surgery is applied to an accident the better the results. And they improve not in arithmetic, but in geometrical ratio.
No Substitute
The motto for the army doctor is—"There is no substitute for good surgery." No trick method or invention has eluded that out of the picture.
The three things that are new and are decided helps to reducing mortality and disability in this war are blood plasma, chemotherapy (by which I mean the sulfa drugs and penicillin), and the immediate rapid and comfortable methods of transporting the wounded to a base where repair surgery can be applied at the soonest possible moment.
A well known surgeon has given out the following rules:
Although it may not be possible during rapid troop movements, expert wound care is more important than chemotherapy.
The four horsemen of destruction are: shock, hemorrhage, infection and pain.
The pillars of treatment are: good surgery, transfusions of blood or plasma, chemotherapy and rapid transportation to the installation where proper care can be administered. In battle the last includes air transport planes.
Five Greatest Discoveries
The five greatest discoveries of surgery are: asepsis, anaesthesia, chemotherapy, X-ray and transfusions of blood and plasma.
Nature is a good physician, but a poor surgeon.
A dermatological friend of mine was smiling somewhat cynically at the news announcement of the brand new paraffin bath treatment for frostbite. During his combat experience in World War I he himself installed a paraffin bath room for certain kinds of wounds at his base in Limoges, France. It is good stuff all right in the proper kinds of wounds, but it is a little tough to tell a fellow who introduced it twenty-six years ago that it is a brand new discovery.
Along the same lines is the announcement from the Russian medical corps of "another development" in the repair of severed nerves by splinting in a dead nerve between the two cut ends of a severed nerve, and giving the nerves a path to grow over and provide means of regeneration. It is all right and works in some cases, but the Russians didn't invent it. I saw such an operation being performed in New York in 1917.

NORTH to DANGER by TOM GILL
CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE
North over the Moose Lake trail they headed, Colin and Nate keeping at a pace that would have exhausted lesser men. At the end of two hours Rae stopped, declaring: "I don't like it."
Colin pointed to a clump of broken willow sprouts. "Dove's been leaving to plain a trail. I'm going to leave it and go around. We'll lose a half day, but I think I know where he's bound."
"What makes you so sure? He might cut across to Moose Jaw or over to God's Lake."
"He wouldn't. Dove knows the moonties will be watching every town after Irina's murder. His only way to safety is by air. My guess is that the plane he used for his map making will come in at some appointed time. When it comes, Dove will be waiting to take it out of the country."
"But we don't know when that will be," Tennant reminded him. And Colin answered, "Whenever it is, I'll be waiting."
By nightfall they reached the lonely arm of the lake close to where Colin had tracked Dove to the plane, but they camped far back in the spruce to leave no tell-tale trail and, that night after a cold supper, Colin made an unpleasant discovery.
Examining the rifle Tennant had brought him—a light 25 high-power—he opened the breech. "Let's have the shells for this," Colin said.
Tennant rummaged about the duffel, throwing everything off the toboggan. "I couldn't—" With fumbling hands he shook out his eiderdown. "These shells are all for my 30-30."
Angrily Nate reached for his snowshoes. "I'm going back to Learmonth and get you those shells."
There was no doubting Tennant's sincerity, and Colin held out a restraining hand. "It's not as bad as all that." From his parka he pulled his automatic.
But Nate shook his head. "That's no weapon against a man with a rifle."
"I'll take a chance."
Still angry at himself, Nate rolled up in his eiderdown. For a time he moved restlessly from side to side, then suddenly sat bolt upright. "Look, Colin," he said, "from now on, you carry my rifle."
"Forget about it," Rae said.
But the morning passed without a trace of human life in all that frozen world. They had mushed for miles, traveling in a great circle with the lake as its center, and toward noon even Nate was showing signs of weariness when they threw themselves down in the snow for a cold lunch.
"Lend a needle in a haystack," Tennant growled. "A whole of a country to hide out in!"
"We're not around the lake yet," Colin reminded him; then he added, "The way Dove left so clear a trail makes me certain he expected I'd come after him. Somewhere along that trail, he waited for me."

"And when you didn't come?"
"He headed toward his meeting place with the plane. The one thing Dove doesn't know is that I followed him there that night. He'll lay low not far away. But the day his plane is due, he'll come out, and it's that day I'm waiting for."
"Maybe the plane's already come and gone," Nate rubbed his stubble beard. "How long do you figure on staying here?"
"Until our food's gone."
"And then?"
"One of us will go back for more." A faint smile touched Colin's lips. "I may even look up those shells for my rifle."
Before the end of that day they came upon their first encouraging sign—a fresh snowshoe trail leading along a winding stream and headed toward the lake. With infinite caution they followed, examining each tree and rock, circling every patch of brush that might give a man concealment. But after a mile the trail emerged upon a ridge so bare and windswept that all trace was lost, and it was almost dusk when the wolves picked the trail up again.
Tennant was exultant as they made camp that night on the edge of a muskeg swamp where they risked a tiny fire for coffee. He looked toward the scout now. Those beauties know the secret now. They'll be hard to lose tomorrow, and they'll give us warning if he's waiting for us."
Nate glanced across at Colin, lying in his eiderdown with somber eyes fixed on the flames. "What are you thinking about?"
The brooding face raised. "How did Selkirk take Irina's death?"
Nate drained his cup. "I saw him over at police barracks yesterday, never liked Rod Selkirk—you know that—but when I looked at him I couldn't feel anything but—well, he had the stuff. You could tell what he was going through. But you knew every minute he was fighting."
"What did he say?"
"He was testifying for Dr. Benedict. Told the police he'd known him for years, and he was willing to swear Benedict wasn't capable of any treasonable act. Then I put in a word. I said Doc wasn't the only one Dove had fooled. He fooled me too. He fooled us all—except you."
"What will they do to Benedict, Nate?"
The heavy shoulders shrugged. "What can they do? They have to accept his story. We all know Doc's trouble—he had a deadly fear of leaving Blair uncares for."
Nate gave an angry laugh. "Dove told Benedict his game was to smuggle furs by airplane into the States, and beat the company by establishing a series of landing fields along the bay. It sounded plausible enough to the Doc, because the Americans were using planes in the arctic fur trade."
"Then Dove loaned him money, and when he couldn't pay it back, put the screws on. Little by little Dove got him where he wanted, until finally Benedict couldn't even squirm."

"Viciously Tennant began cutting up whitefish for his wolves. "Think of that rat, living with us for years, setting us against one another. It's because of him I'm in a jam with my trappers—I've got to do something about them, or don't want to turn them loose in the middle of winter."
"I'll tell you the answer to that," Colin filled his pipe. "Colonel Dowling wants to organize a patrol to watch out for Nazi bases around the bay. Your trappers would be just right for that work—they're natural hunters, and able to take care of themselves if the going got tough. Why don't you put it up to them when you get back?"
"But it's up to them!" In his excitement Nate threw the whitefish on the snow and knelt beside Colin. "Those trappers will jump at the chance—every man of them—if the Colonel will take them."
"He'll take them."
Tennant was watching Rae closely. "Where do you come in on this?"
"Col. Dowling asked me to pick the men." Colin laid a hand on Tennant's arm. "Look, Nate. Why don't you join up, too? You and your trappers could take over the country east of the Nelson."
For a time Tennant sat watching the flames, then at last he shook his head. "For my trappers it's the chance of a lifetime, but for me it wouldn't work." Slowly he looked up. "Before I left Learmonth, Blair told me how things stood between you two. If I joined up on that patrol, I'd be seeing you, and I'd be seeing Blair, and it just wouldn't work."
Silence followed, and soon they wrapped themselves in their eiderdowns.
At dawn they were up. Leaving robes and equipment behind, they harnessed the wolves to an empty toboggan, and picked up the snowshoe tracks shortly before nine.
Pulling off his mittens, Tennant touched the trodden edges of the crust. "Fresh! These weren't made more than an hour ago." He laid his hands on the lead wolf's head. "Mush on, you darlings!"
For two miles the trail led through country so open there was little chance of ambush, and they followed at a steady trot; then the tracks climbed a long, high ridge, and on the topmost point the pursuers stopped. Through his field glasses Colin examined the terrain. Far below lay a frozen lake, its surface broken toward the farther shore by an island of heavy spruce. The lake itself was roughly oval, probably a mile long, the island occupying a good half of it, leaving a broad expanse of wind-twisted ice between it and the nearer shore. And with a thrill Colin saw that the tracks were headed across the lake, directly for the island.

Washington at a Glance By JACK STINNETT
(First of Two Articles On A Unified Military Command.)
WASHINGTON—Almost any day now the lid is going to blow off—verbally at least—on the fight for unification of the armed forces under one command.
Rep. Clifton Woodrum's post-war military policy subcommittee was going a routine job when the thing popped into the open. Secretary of War Stimson, himself, exploded it by out-and-out backing of unification.
The idea of a unified command of the Army and Navy is nothing new. But when Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff, followed Sec. Stimson before the committee and laid down a virtual blueprint for it, it proved that thinking along these lines had gone much further than any one realized. Gen. McNarney's blueprint was so buried in the story of that day, it got very little attention.
Briefly, the proposed set-up would call for a chief of staff to the commander-in-chief (the president). He would be the supreme professional commander of all military forces on land, sea and air. Under him would be three deputy chiefs of staff; one each for the Army, Navy and Air Force. Separate and responsible to all of these would be the Services of Supply. There would be in the cabinet one secretary of military affairs and his staff would do all the civilian work for all three branches.
The reason why the Navy doesn't like the idea is rather obvious. Behind the scenes is an even better reason than those in the Navy who have or will testify against it would admit publicly.
Regardless of what opposing arguments Navy men put forth, many of them agree privately that unification at some future date is inevitable. Their strategy will be to put it off as long as possible. Even with the greatest fleet afloat today, the Navy has not nearly reached its full strength. This year and next will see it increase and then the Navy will be ready for its big show in the Pacific.
By the size of its personnel and its tasks ahead in Europe for a year or two to come, the Army would be "top dog" if the forces were consolidated now. But suppose the unification can be delayed until the European war is over. The Navy's big show will be on and the work of demobilizing our vast Army started. By that time, the Navy certainly would be larger and would continue so, for it will be many years before we think of reducing it to anything like Pearl Harbor size.
Of the various blueprints that have been discussed, an interesting one has been a division under one head into Pacific and Atlantic commands, with the Navy heading the Pacific and the Army heading the Atlantic.
Not all Navy men, however, are opposed to unification now. I am reliably informed that at least one high naval official on active duty will testify for it before the Woodrum committee.

Europe's Kings Anxious To Go Back Home
LONDON — Spread around London these days, a half-dozen reigning rulers—with no place to reign—are keeping their eyes to the east and their bags packed for a quick trip home.
These six monarchs all are receiving full underground reports regularly from their homelands and are spending most of their time planning to get things rolling again when the Nazis bow out—or are blown out. Even King Peter of Yugoslavia is chin-deep in post-war planning, although he's taken a few days off recently for a honeymoon.
Some of these rulers, it would appear, are going to have some questions to answer when they get home, although it is reported even the position of King Zog of Albania has improved recently since the opera-composing Albanian Bishop Fannoli in the United States has joined the Zog movement after previously opposing it.
Daily Conferences
Most of the monarchs meet daily, or several times weekly, with their ministers. The beloved Queen Wilhelmina of Holland already has put a young lawyer—escaped from the Dutch underground—on her cabinet as minister without portfolio to coordinate activities in connection with the return of the government to the Netherlands, particularly in ironing out social problems. The Grand Duchess Charlotte of Luxembourg has conferred with her ministers concerning a post-war economy by which the little Duchy can benefit most from its position as the world's seventh steel producer.
Most of the rulers, too, receive and interview thousands of their subjects who have escaped the Nazi yoke and bring messages from the underground. Queen Wilhelmina broadcasts regularly to her people. Underground reports show she has the largest number of listeners of any program among people still with sets in Holland. King Haakon of Norway radios special messages and has prepared leaflets which are sent by the thousands to his homeland for secret distribution.
Bike-Riding Queen
King George of Greece has spent most of his time since war began with his government in Carlo, but he recently made a six-week visit to England, during which he conferred with Prime Minister Churchill, a Foreign Minister Eden and other members of the British government.
Queen Wilhelmina lives with folk for decision bout Monday night.

HEDGE-ROW SYSTEM
HILL SYSTEM

Setting Raspberry Plants in Victory Garden
By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association
THERE ARE TWO general systems of planting and training raspberries with which the Victory gardener should be familiar. One is the hedge-row system and the other one is known as the hill system.
In the hedge-row system, illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, the plants are set in rows which are laid out about seven feet apart. The plants are set two and one-half to three feet apart in the row. This system has the advantage of providing the maximum number of canes for a given area of ground.
Many sucker plants are sent up in the hedge-row system and unless these are thoroughly eliminated the planting will soon become a thicket and get out of hand. The width of the row, therefore, should be maintained at not more than one foot, with three or four canes allowed to remain per running foot.
In the hill system, also illustrated, the plants are usually set five by five feet apart each way, with a stake firmly set in the middle of each hill. Later, as sucker plants are sent up, the individual hills are best confined to a space about 15 inches wide, with five to eight of the strongest canes remaining. The other plants must be cut out; keep the hills within bounds, or else the planting will become a hopeless thicket yielding only small and inferior berries.

Linda Paxson Exchanges Vows in Houston, Tex., with Pfc. Hugh Egbert Urbantke

Prominent Young Woman Married May 10 At Quiet Ceremony in Texas; Attending Were Many Friends

A quiet ceremony performed in the Methodist Church in Houston, Texas, united in marriage Etha Linda Paxson, only daughter of State Representative and Mrs. W. S. Paxson, East Street, this city, to Pfc. Hugh Egbert Urbantke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo E. Urbantke, of Houston, Texas.

Officiating at the marriage was the Rev. Doctor A. B. Jackson, pastor of that church, at eight-thirty A. M., Wednesday morning, May tenth.

For her marriage, the personable young bride chose a modish aqua blue ensemble with which she combined navy blue accessories. Her flowers were gardenias, pinned to the shoulder. The church altar, where the vows were exchanged, was banked with many gorgeous arrangements of seasonal Texas flowers, and as maid of honor for the bride was the bridegroom's sister, Dr. Hortense Urbantke.

A number of invited close friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony.

Immediately following the ceremony, the wedding party went to the home of the bridegroom's parents, where a wedding breakfast was served. The newly-weds then left on a short honeymoon in Tennessee, at the close of which the bridegroom returned to his station at Camp Campbell, Ky.

The new Mrs. Urbantke has returned to Columbus, where she has resumed practicing law at the Federal Court Building. She attended Mary Baldwin Girls' School in Staunton, Va., Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, and graduated from Ohio State University, Columbus, law school and was admitted to the bar. She was the only woman to graduate in March, 1944, with a degree to practice law.

The bridegroom, formerly stationed at Ohio State University, Columbus, with an A. S. T. P. unit, attended the University of Houston, and is now at Camp Campbell, Ky., awaiting assignment.

The popular young couple have been receiving the best wishes and felicitations of their many friends here and elsewhere.

Wesleyan Service Guild Meets with Amelia Pensyl

Sixteen members of the Wesleyan Service Guild assembled at the home of Miss Amelia Pensyl on Yeoman Street, Monday evening, in regular meeting, under the direction of Mrs. Pauline Browning, the president.

Mrs. Ethel McElwain had charge of the devotional hour on the topic "Voices of Children." Two hymns were read by Mrs. Marie Williams, at the conclusion of the hour.

Miss Pensyl then took as her subject the Nursery schools sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service. Mrs. Helen Dunton then gave as her topic the Italian Settlement in Utica, New York. Miss Ruth Sexton's subject was the Wesleyan Institute in Memphis, Tenn. The program concluded with Miss Marian Christopher who had as her topic the West Side Community House in Cleveland.

At the conclusion of the most interesting and enlightening meeting the hostess invited her guests to the dining room where a prettily-arranged tea table was placed. Presiding at the table was the president, Mrs. Browning, who served the many tea delicacies. Centering the table was a bouquet of vari-colored spring flowers.

The meeting was then adjourned.

Mothers' Circle Banquet Is Held Monday Evening At High School Cafeteria

Annual Affair Attended by Members and Past Members Who Hear Varied Program Presented

When the Mother's Circle entertained with their annual banquet at the high school cafeteria, Monday evening, many past members of this prominent women's club were in attendance with the regular members. For the serving, the tables were arranged about the spacious room, with one long table in the shape of a U, encircling three smaller ones.

This table arrangement signified the four major allied powers, the U for the United States, with the smaller tables representing China, Russia and Great Britain. These four countries were the theme of the program which was presented following the dinner hour.

Centering the tables were the respective flags of each country, topped with a miniature doll attired in the costume native to that country. At each place were favors which were tiny flags topped with gum drops. The red, white and blue color theme was carried out in the remainder of the decorations about the room.

Following the most enjoyable dinner hour, the president, Mrs. Martha Reiff, arose and gave a few words of welcome to those attending and especially to the past members who were present for this eagerly anticipated meeting.

She then turned the meeting over to the toastmistress for the evening, Mrs. Louise Trimmer, who presented Miss Mary Elizabeth Browning, vocal music supervisor of the schools here. She presented a group of youngsters who sang the "Indian Medicine Man" as Audrey Patton danced to this. Next was the portrayal of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, by Charles Campbell, and those who sang during this act was Milla Weatherly, Julia Andrews, Billy Trimmer and Mat Emerson.

Dixie Lee Ellison and Fritz Emerson then danced the Minuet and sang as they danced in appropriate costume.

This portion of the program was concluded with the Pledge to the Flag, and Patty Eckle appeared in the garb of the Goddess of Liberty. The singers and dancers were accompanied by Miss Marian Christopher.

Mrs. Trimmer, as toastmistress, then presented the past and present president of the Mother's Circle, Mrs. Martha Reiff, who characterized the First Lady of the Land. She made a few remarks, and then the new vice-president, Mrs. Mary Kay Smith, was introduced.

Mrs. Smith represented England, and at the close of her remarks, she introduced Miss Sara Keck of the high school faculty. Miss Keck presented Janice Murray and Hal Summers in two scenes from "Mac Beth." Preceding this, Miss Laura Schadel sang two English airs, "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes" and "The Lass With The Delicate Air." She was accompanied by Mrs. Donald Schwaigert.

The treasurer, Mrs. Fred Rost, then took as her theme "Russia" and she read a paper telling of the music, architecture, customs, etc., of this great country, and then turned to the musical portion of her program. She introduced Mrs. Donald Schwaigert, who played two piano numbers, "The Devils Are Amused," and "Andante Contable." This concluded the study of Russia.

Mrs. R. T. Andrews, past secretary of the Circle, then had as her subject "China" and as she has traveled extensively through this country, was quite interesting in her address on the philosophy, art, poetry, pottery, painting, religion, and history of this country, which dates back 40,000 years. She then turned her program over to the new secretary, Mrs. Robert Parrett, who told of New China, and how the influence of the present leaders is helping this country to form a new government and fight their present war.

Mrs. Parrett then presented Miss Keck, who gave a review of the novel, "Dragon Seed."

Mrs. Reiff then conducted a brief business meeting and it was announced the Circle will sponsor a Teen-Age Club here. One person from the six or eight other organizations interested in helping with this plan are to meet with the consulting board, this week, to begin laying plans for the undertaking.

Chairman of the decorations and dining room committee was Mrs. Charles Reinke, assisted by Mrs. Marilyn Riley, Mrs. Forrest Hill, Mrs. Eugene Smith and Mrs. Thomas Christopher.

Mrs. George Trimmer presided as toastmistress during the evening, assisted by Mrs. Robert Parrett.

Scout Program Expansion Looms As Drive Nears

MONEY NEEDED FOR ACTIVITIES FOR THIS YEAR

Young Army Officer To Come Here as New Field Executive for Area

When half a hundred busy businessmen go out Wednesday to raise funds for maintaining the Boy Scout activities here for another year, they will be able to tell prospective contributors with a reasonable degree of certainty not only that the program now can be expanded but also that a regular full-time field executive will come in here to supervise it.

Although details were still lacking, W. F. Rettig, high school principal and county Scout chairman, said he had just received word from state Scout headquarters that a discharged army major, a comparatively youthful veteran of the present World War, had been assigned to this three-county area as Scout executive. Rettig said he had not yet met him, but added he understood he had had experience in Scouting and was considered well qualified for this type of work. He said he did not know where he had served with the armed forces before he was retired on a medical discharge.

Breakfast For Starter

The fund-raising campaign is to get under way Wednesday with a breakfast in the high school cafeteria at 7 A. M. for the four ward chairmen—John Sagar, Ellet Kaufman, Carroll Halliday and Charles Orr—and the eight to a dozen solicitors each has selected to make the canvass.

Col. Rell G. Allen is chairman of the special gifts committee and Earl Henderson, as Rettig's special assistant, has help make the plans for the campaign.

Leonard Korn is the campaign's finance chairman. The workers are to be instructed to make their reports to their ward chairman Wednesday evening when they complete their canvass but all money and contributor's cards are to be turned in to Korn the following morning.

One-Day Campaign

The campaign has been set up, Rettig said, as a one-day affair. No quota or goal has been set, but the chairman declared the committee hoped to raise enough for expansion of the program for the coming year. Last year's campaign raised $1,300, but it was intimated that more than that will be needed if the program now tentatively outlined is carried out.

A door-to-door canvass is not planned. Rather, the chairman explained, a card index with the known supporters of the Scout movement as the foundation, will be used to a considerable degree. Aside from the contacts made by the special gifts committee, each of the ward workers will be given cards of a dozen prospective contributors on whom to call.

DIVORCE SUIT

Charging neglect of duty and extreme cruelty, Maxine Murphy has filed action in Common Pleas Court for divorce from Carl L. Murphy, to whom she was married Oct. 30, 1937, at Richmond, Ind.

Plaintiff states that property agreement was reached whereby plaintiff was to turn over to defendant certain money in the bank, etc., for household goods and bonds. Plaintiff spent the money, according to the petition, sold plaintiff's interests in bonds and appropriated the money for same. In addition to divorce, the plaintiff asks possession of household goods, reasonable alimony and restoration to her maiden name.

ANNUAL PARTY DRAWS OVER 250 BOYS AND GIRLS

4-H Club Members and Many Advisers Take Part In Event

The annual 4-H Club party held at Memorial Hall, was attended by over 250 members, many 4-H advisers and several parents. The third floor of the Hall is used from two to three times monthly by the rural young people for recreation.

The spring party is one of the big occasions in the year's club program for many boys and girls and makes a good opener for the year's 4-H work. Only a few counties have such an annual get-together for their members.

County Agricultural Agent W. W. Montgomery announced the holding of the 4-H camp at Camp Clifton for the week of July 31 to August 5. This year Fayette County will camp with Logan County. In previous years the counties of Fayette, Greene and Clinton have camped together.

The program of the evening was in charge of June Montgomery, Lois Kennell and Robert Browning. They were assisted by Ruth Engle, Janice Murray, Joann Pope, Ivalene Davis, Barton Montgomery, Glenn Moore, Patty Mitchell and Ruth Cardiff.

The grand march of over 200 young people was led by Ruth Engle and Barton Montgomery.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by a committee consisting of Edward Davis, Charles Duff and Jimmie Mitchell.

AUTO AND GARAGE DAMAGED BY FIRE

Short Circuit Responsible for Much Damage

Firemen were summoned to the Rodney Morris premises at 6:40 A. M. Tuesday, by fire that badly damaged his automobile and the garage in which it was kept before the flames could be extinguished.

Starting as result of a short circuit, the fire spread throughout the car and then into the garage, burning off part of the roof and charring part of the interior.

HEAVY HAILSTORMS IN ADJACENT COUNTIES

Heavy hailstorms in lower Madison County, including the Mt. Sterling area, and in parts of Highland County, are reported by residents of those counties, as having occurred late Saturday, during heavy rains in the two counties.

Some hail occurred in the extreme northern part of Fayette County, the same day.

In some areas where the hail fell, gardens were completely ruined, and wheat and other crops were damaged.

DR. PAUL CRAIG'S CAR NOT YET RECOVERED

A Hudson coupe owned by Dr. Paul Craig, stolen from in front of his home on Washington Avenue last Friday evening, presumably by three boys who had escaped from the B. I. S. near Lancaster, is still missing.

The car was stolen shortly after the trio had abandoned another car on Washington Avenue, that had been stolen in Lancaster.

There are an estimated 5 billion birds in the United States.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

Fayette County Boys With Armed Forces

Pvt. William Braun arrived here Tuesday morning from Camp Barkley, Texas, to spend 7 days furlough with his mother, Mrs. Martha Braun.

Pvt. John Anderson left here early Tuesday morning for Camp Haan, Calif., after spending 7 days here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson and sisters, Jane and Joan.

Pvt. Charles A. Foster, formerly of Bloomington, who was inducted into service May 6, is now stationed at Parris Island, South Carolina, in the U. S. Marine Corps.

Mr. and Mrs. Arch O. Riber have received word from their son, Donald Riber, seaman second class, U. S. Navy, telling them he is now beginning sixteen weeks of yeoman school in Bainbridge, Md.

Pvt. Conde Cyril Ellis has been transferred from the Aleutian area to Anchorage, Alaska, according to word received here by his mother, Mrs. Henrietta Ellis. He has been in service since March 1943 and in Alaska since July of that same year.

Cpl. Charles Runnels, who spent a short leave here with his family and friends, has now returned to his station somewhere along the Eastern Coast, Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Bowmaster, son, Jackie, Mrs. Henry Runnels and Mrs. Charles Runnels motored him to Columbus.

Cpl. Loren Noble, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Noble of Bloomington, arrived there Monday morning on a 22 day furlough, coming from Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

Cpl. Noble has spent two and one-half years with the army in Panama, and has been ordered to report to a designated point in North Carolina, after his furlough visit.

He is in the medical corps, having entered the service March 10, 1941. While at Fort Benjamin Harrison, he saw Leo McDaniels, formerly employed as manager of the meat department at Marvin's. McDaniels is in the air corps, and has just returned to the States after spending many months in India. He is visiting his parents now, in Athens, and expects to visit here with friends during his furlough.

CAN NOT BRING BODY BACK NOW FOR INTERMENT

James R. Agnew To Be Buried In Cuba Until After World War

Word has been received by relatives here that the body of Private James Robert Agnew, 24, killed in an army plane crash in Cuba, Saturday, must be interred in Cuba until after the war, due to a ruling of the War Department.

Plans had been made to have his body returned here for burial, but word came from the commanding officer of Chatham Field, Savannah, Ga., that burial for the time being must be made in Cuba.

Later if the family wishes, his body will be disinterred and shipped to this city under the direction of the War Department.

His mother, Mrs. James Robert Agnew, is with her parents here, Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Parrett, for the time being.

Mr. and Mrs. Agnew reside in Steubenville, and first word of their son's death came in a long distance telephone call from Savannah, Ga., early Sunday morning.

SOCIAL SECURITY CARD NECESSARY

Boys and Girls Asked To Obtain Cards

Boys and girls in this community who take jobs in war plants should get a social security card to take with them, Wayne W. Putnam, manager of the USES office in Columbus said Tuesday.

"War plants require every worker to have a social security card before they are put on the pay roll."

Every employer on jobs covered by the law must have a record of the name and social security number of all persons on his pay roll, whether they work full time or part time. Application

MONDAY WAS HOTTEST DAY OF THE SEASON

U. S. Weather Observer, Chalmer Burns, said Tuesday that Monday's temperature peak of 88 degrees was the hottest of the season to-date, and unusually warm for this time in May. The lowest point during the day was 58 degrees, and at 9 P. M. Monday night the reading was 63. At 8 A. M. Tuesday the mercury stood at 66, or four degrees above the peak temperature a year ago, when 62 and 47 were the extremes.
